I grew up in the equipment manufacturing industry, gaining hands-on experience across roles from answering phones to purchasing and sales. This broad exposure has given me a practical, well-rounded understanding of manufacturing operations. I'm passionate about helping clients find the right equipment and support—whether it's a single machine, a turnkey line, or packaging design guidance. I've sold everything from individual units to full systems, and my wide network ensures I can deliver tailored, effective solutions. I look forward to supporting your next manufacturing need.
